Dear Jacob, welcome to the world! You are blessed and embraced by all who love you. Your name in Hebrew means "holder of the heel" or "may God protect", and people born with this name have a quiet nature, and a clever, inventive mind, paying attention to life's details.

In your astrological chart mapped by the heavens, you come in to the world to do just that, to bring order, harmony, healing, and practical wisdom into your life, and the lives of those you touch.

Your home is very pleasant, surrounding the home and family. You are extremely happy and outgoing, you love the outdoors, and the freedom the world has to offer. You are not one to like to be in small spaces, which makes you feel cramped. You are adventurous, and you like to explore the unknown.

As you grow, your charming personality will start to appear to others. You are quite charismatic, and people are drawn to you. You have a "magnetic charm." You love to laugh & have fun, and are cheerful to be around. Though at other times, you can come across as very shy, quiet, and reserved. Sometimes your emotions will be stirred up dealing with others, and you'll need to get away from social situations. Being alone in these situations, will help you to gain your inner stability.

You are inquisitive & eager to know about everything. You are mentally alert, and absorb knowledge easily. You are hardworking and ambitious, with a great deal of control that helps you achieve the success that you want. Your great determination will help you succeed, especially in times of adversity.

You have strong values and beliefs, and your love for freedom and individuality is undeniable. You work best on your own, but at the same time have a great compassion for others, and willing to help those in need. You like to dress in an "offbeat" manner, just enough to show others your individuality.

You are highly intuitive, and have a highly developed imagination. This can sometimes cause confusion when faced with reality. There will be times when you need to pay attention to the realistic side of life. This will be apparent in certain stages of your life, when your circumstances will demand it.

You will find it is your own inner emotions that will be tested throughout your life, when dealing with people and situations. You will find that you experience your greatest happiness in life when you strike the proper balance between satisfying your needs, and adhering to the demands of society.
